Oceano 4-H Student Nutrition Advisors have been working all Summer on their cooking, presentation and leadership skills with UC CalFresh Nutrition Educator, Lisa Paniagua (pictured at right).

For a Healthy Living Community Service Project, students collaborated with the San Luis Obispo County Food Bank to develop a recipe based on the ingredients available in the warehouse. Student leaders made a list of available foods and, using their nutrition skills and knowledge, created a Summer Fruit Salad recipe (see below). SNAC leaders then prepared the recipe and worked with the Food Bank Nutrition Manager, Melissa Danehey to sample the recipe with food bank clients and teach them the importance of including a variety of fruits and vegetables in their daily meals.

The video below was prepared by UC Garden Nutrition Extender 4-H Volunteer Julianne Mittman. Robots on the Move!

Summer is often a time when 4-H projects are on vacation, but not the Robotics Project! In July, Dennis, Sara and Dagmar Derickson took the Scribbler Robots on the road to the State 4-H Leadership Conference in Davis, California for a workshop session for the high school youth in attendance.

The workshop space quickly filled to capacity and the youth were deeply engaged in programming their individual robots to write specific alphabet letters to spell out the challenge phrase presented to them. Once the phrase was completed the more difficult task of programming the robots to maneuver through a maze was undertaken and accomplished.

Then the robots were on the move again to make their debut at the Mid-State Fair where youth were again engaged in meeting the challenges presented including the maze.

If you were not able to attend either of these two events but have an interest in Robotics, please contact the 4-H office at (805) 781-5941 to learn how you can participate in this exciting 4-H Project during the coming 2017—2018 4-H year!
