Join One Cool Earth at Whale Rock Reservoir to check out progress on restoring the slopes of the reservoir with native trees. Whale Rock Reservoir is the water supply for Cal Poly and San Luis Obispo. Lionel Johnston has worked with hundreds of volunteers to plant hundreds of trees on the site in the last 20 years, through transplanting and direct seeding. We will help maintain the trees, placing protective tubes and stakes. Visit <http://onecoolearth.net/cambria-whale-rock-reservoir-tree-planting/2009> for pictures and more information about past plantings. For more information call Greg Ellis at 760-382-5164.

Next NTC meeting: 15 Apr 2011—“Atascadero Native Tree Association Planting Projects” with Joan O’Keefe and Tina Salter in Atascadero – specific location TBA
